FATHER DEAD AND CHILDREN HURT IN CRASH IN CARROLL

Elmer Webb Drove Car in Front of Speeding C. B. & Q. Train

Elmer Webb, aged 45, a farmer employed on the farm of Mrs. Ella Brand, five miles west of Milledgeville, was instantly killed, and two of his little children were seriously injured at about 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when their Ford touring car was struck by a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad train at a crossing near their home, where his wife and two other children were waiting the return of the husband and father and the two little ones from Milledgeville.

Webb's badly mutilated body was found pinned in the wreckage of the car, while the two children, Irene, aged 5, and Clair, aged 3, were thrown from the rear seat of the auto when the freight locomotive struck the fore part of it. Irene suffered a fractured skull, severe laceration, severe bruises and minor cuts about the body, and surgeons at the Savanna hospital, to which both children were taken after the accident, last night despaired of her recovery. However she rallied during the night and at a late hour this morning there were hopes of her recovery. The younger child's injuries consisted of severe lacerations of the scalp, his right ear being nearly torn off, concussion of the brain and several painful bruises.

Railroad officials and witnesses to the tragedy are at a loss to explain the accident, unless the engine of Webb's car stalled on the track, for the view of the tracks both ways from the crossing is unobstructed.

The train was travelling at a rapid rate when the engineer saw the automobile approaching the crossing. He claims to have blown several blasts of the whistle, but says the driver of the car continued to approach the crossing with undiminished speed and to have run directly into the tracks as the engine reached the crossing.

There was a crash and the light automobile was thrown ahead and to one side of the engine, the two children being thrown clear of the wreckage. They were found by members of the train crew about forty feet from the crossing, both unconscious and bleeding profusely. Webb's body, badly crushed, was found in the wreckage of the car.

Webb and his family moved to the vicinity of Milledgeville from Peoria about two years ago, and his body will probably be taken to that city for burial.

Anticipate Record Vote in Lee County At Election Nov. 6

Over 15,000 Lee county voters are expected to register for the coming general election, which will be held Tuesday, Nov. 6, at which time it is expected a record vote will be cast in this county, and judges of election are already passing the word around to the voters of their various precincts that it is absolutely essential that every qualified voter be registered in order to be unmolested in casting his vote.

Two registration days are provided for in the law. The first of these will be Tuesday, Oct. 16, at which time the judges of election in the various precincts will meet at their respective polling places and go over the poll lists and register the names of all voters they know are qualified. On the second registration day, Tuesday, Oct. 30, the judges will again meet at the polling places and on that day it is the duty of every voter who is not certain that he or she has been registered to call at the polling place and ask the judges to register his name.

Reference to the records shows that at the last general election, that held in November, 1924, a total of 12,619 votes were cast in Lee county.

Find White Man's Body In Nicaragua

Managua, Nicaragua, Sept. 27—(AP)—Investigation is being made into the identity of the body of a white man with three bullet holes in the back of his head which recently was found at Waspad on the Coco river.

It is believed that the body may be that of George B. Marshall of New York, assistant manager of the La Luz L. Los Angeles gold mine, an American-owned property in eastern Nicaragua who was captured last April by followers of the rebel leader Sandino when the La Luz mine was looted and destroyed.

Three rings were found on the man's fingers, but the condition of the body was such that identification was impossible.

DINNER—Spanish steak, twice baked sweet potatoes, buttered beets, cold slaw, frozen junket with fresh peaches, cake, milk, coffee.

Children's Sponge Cake
One and one-half cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, milk, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.
Mix and sift flour, salt, baking powder and sugar three or four times. Break eggs into measuring cup and fill with milk. Add to dry ingredients and beat hard for five minutes. Beat in vanilla and pour into an oiled and floured cake pan. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven.
Cream can be used in place of milk if a slightly richer cake is wanted. Hard beating insures the success of this cake.

Meeting Grade P.T.A. Was Held Wednesday

The Grade P. T. A. meeting was held Wednesday afternoon at the South Central High School building. There was a good attendance and the meeting was opened with a song by all.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer were given. Mrs. George Shaw was elected to be a delegate to the state meeting Oct. 5th to be held at Galena, Ill. Mrs. O. W. Dodd was elected as alternate. All mothers who can, should go; it is a beautiful ride at this time of year, especially, and much may be derived from the meeting. All the state officers will be present.

Mr. Richard Gartman, president of the Association, then introduced John H. Byers, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who gave an excellent talk on organization and cooperation. Mr. Byers urged the parents to visit the schools and become acquainted with the teachers of their children and learn to know them, and have them know you. Mr. Byers kindly offered his assistance to the P. T. A. at any time.

Mr. Byers' talk was of much value to all present.

MRS. STUART'S GUEST RETURNS HOME

Mrs. E. S. Carbaugh of Chadwick, who has been spending the past two weeks at the Woy cottage at Dixon with Mrs. A. B. Stuart, returned home on Sunday evening.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUDNER

When Clarence Mackay was reunited with his daughter Ellen Berlin over his mother's coffin, it meant that death had again won when life could not. Ellen married Irving Berlin, once Izzie Balin, little singing gamlin in the Bowery resort of "Nigger Mike's," but when she wed him he was a millionaire himself and America's foremost popular song composer.

Her father ceased speaking to her. Even the birth of the Berlin baby made no difference. But the death of his own mother and the meeting at the funeral brought kisses from both sides. Rather queer, this, the superiority of death's influence to that of life's.

BET THEY LIKE IT!

After all, why all the hullabaloo about the trials and tribulations of Florence Trumbull and John Coolidge, Gene Tunney and Polly Lauder, and all these celebrated young who just can't keep their poor little romances to themselves?

It's only old age which feels that privacy has a great value. Youth revels in notoriety. Ask any flapper how badly she'd feel if she were Florence Trumbull right now, and if she's born wearing the mantle of truth, she'll tell you that she'd eat it alive! What girl wouldn't? Have you heard of very many kicks from the various young ladies reported engaged to the Prince of Wales? May-be they don't like it, too!

DON'T ESK!

"Do Men Love the Women They Are Sure Of?" is the rather intriguing title of an article in a current woman's magazine. The answer is so quick and emphatic an "Of course not!" from all women who have learned anything at all that one wonders why such an article has any value at all except that the author gives an excuse for a pretty picture. But if you think it does have any startling new idea in it, she says, in part—

RIGHT SHE IS!

"Men do not want to be sure of the women they love. Men thrive on uncertainty. Men are born philanderers. If darling doesn't admit her love our hero will send her a big box of roses the next day or a book of poems, or take her out to dance."

"But if the lady says that she does love him he will go home, his mind so filled with thoughts of business or baseball that it never occurs to him to enter a florist's or a confectioner's shop!"

ALIMONY

This question of alimony is getting bigger and bigger. There's a new novel on the subject—"Alimony," by Faith Baldwin, and Vera Connolly has this to say on the subject in a current magazine article.

"There is alimony that is justifiable and honorable. Against it there should be no prejudice. It is the support rightfully granted a wife with little children, or one middle-aged and economically helpless, or one who has become an invalid during marriage, when the husband's behavior has forced a termination of the partnership."

Which is about the only argument for it which a sane and just human being can accept today.

CHOIR REHEARSAL FRIDAY EVENING

The choir of the St. Paul's Lutheran church will meet for rehearsal Friday evening instead of Thursday evening, as Mrs. Goodsell is to be absent from the city.

State's Welfare Conference Meets in Quincy Today

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Need for a comprehensive review of Illinois' whole system of child care was pointed out to state welfare workers today by Katherine F. Lunsford, assistant to the chief of the children's bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Addressing the Illinois conference on Public Welfare this morning, she declared that on Illinois statute books still is a law which permits the indenturing of children. "under a system the abuses of which in England were so vividly portrayed by Charles Dickens."

The Illinois illegitimacy law, moreover, is not in accordance with present day standards; the Illinois law still permits the retention of children in almshouses when provision for their placement elsewhere "without expense to the county" cannot be made; and on January 1, 1923, there were 157 children in almshouses in the state.

"Illinois has an enviable record," she said, "as a pioneer in the development of such modern institutions as the juvenile court, mother's pensions, and the juvenile psychopathic institute, but there is real need for a comprehensive review of the whole system of child care."

Coordination of all of the many child welfare agencies was urged as the best means toward working out a state plan to protect children. She pointed out that while there were always workers for child welfare, each was concerned with a particular problem, and in Illinois, for instance, no state agency directed the whole activity.

"Permanent administrative departments of state government," she said, "have been concerned more with the administration of particular phases of child welfare work than with the development of comprehensive programs covering the needs of all children."

"Nevertheless, under recently enacted statutes special emphasis is being placed on state assistance in preventive and educational work, careful study of state and local needs and resources, and the development of local agencies with broad programs, working in cooperation with state departments and designed especially to meet the needs of the rural districts and the smaller cities and towns."

"Most of the newer laws give the state agency general powers of investigation and recommendation. For example, the Illinois board of public welfare commissioners, which serves as an advisory board to the department of public welfare, is empowered to consider and study the entire field, recommend policies and practice, make recommendations to the governor and legislature and investigate the condition and management of the whole system of charitable, penal and correctional institutions of the state."

"The work of the children's committee appointed by the Illinois department of public welfare in 1920 is an excellent example of this type of service. The important research and educational work carried on by the department through the Juvenile Psychopathic Institute is known through the country."

"The children of Illinois, the children of America, can be given the opportunities we all desire for them only through the co-operation and harmonious functioning of health, educational and social service agencies, working for and with the mothers and fathers in behalf of those who should be the dearest concern of home, community, state and nation."

Mrs. Smith Enters Husband's Campaign

BY MARTHA DALRYMPLE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Governor Smith's Train, Enroute to Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 27.—(AP)—An earnest entrance into the field of politics usually occupied by her husband, was made last night by Mrs. Alfred E. Smith.

With her daughter, Mrs. John A. Warner, and Mrs. Caroline O'Day, vice chairman of the Democratic State Committee of New York, the other two feminine members of Gov. Smith's personal party, Mrs. Smith held a press conference and submitted to a barrage of questions—political, social and domestic.

She smiled expansively as she commented on her first campaign trip as "wonderful."

"They have all been so wonderful to me, everybody I have met," she said. "Why, at every place we have been special luncheons for us and at one place, Oklahoma City, there were two receptions, one right after the luncheon and one later in the afternoon at the capital grounds."

Mrs. Warner said the outstanding thing to her in meeting women from all part of the country was the amazement they all expressed at anybody's not supporting her father in his campaign.

"All the issues of the campaign seem to be of equal interest to the women that I have met and talked to," she said. "They are all interested in agriculture and in matters of welfare legislation."

"Twice Mrs. O'Day spoke at luncheons, telling the women of father's record as Governor of New York. They all seemed exceedingly interested and came up afterward and asked us questions."

Dirkson-Mathews Wedding at Oregon

Oregon, Sept. 26.—Miss Elizabeth Dirksen and Lewis Mathews were married Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock by the Rev. A. R. Eickenbach at the Eickenbach home.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Emil Johnson, of Rockford.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathews left immediately for a motor trip in Wisconsin and, upon their return Sunday, they will reside at 600 South Third street.

Mrs. Mathews has been chief operator in the local telephone exchange several years, and is a daughter of Rinder Dirksen of Third street. Mr. Mathews is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mathews, of Stillman Valley, and is employed by the Northern Illinois Utilities company.

Bridge Made Easy

DECLARER'S STRATEGY—3
Another illustration of making a winning trick is by "throwing the lead." When you, as declarer, hold combinations of cards similar to Ace-Queen, additional tricks may be made if you can force second hand to lead up to you, rather than have third hand lead through you. This is deftly accomplished by the expert by playing a card from a suit that is sure to put second hand on the lead, so that second hand must lead up to the declarer. This maneuver is often utilized at the end of the game.

An illustration of shuffling, ruffing and finessing in actual play, hearts being trump, follows:

Dummy—spades A K Q; hearts 5 4 3 2; diamonds 5; clubs 9 8 7 6 3.
East—
Declarer—spades J; hearts A Q J 8 7 6; diamonds A 6 4 3; clubs 5 4.
West—Leads diamonds K.
Declarer plans his campaign and takes with the Ace of diamonds. A grand slam may be made by ruffing declarer's small diamonds, shuffling declarer's clubs on dummy's spades and finessing the trump suit.

Uniform Practice Urged For Courts

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The necessity for "uniform court practice" was stressed by Judge Roger E. Chaplin of Springfield at the state convention of County and Probate Judges here this morning. Judge S. L. Rath of Dupage county dissected the "Special Assessment Law" pointing out some of its deficiencies but upholding it as a rule. The matter of assessment of corner property was taken up as well as special assessments for drainage districts.

Early in the morning the judges had a round of golf at the country club and at noon were guests there of the Adams County Bar Association. In the afternoon Judge Henry F. Ruel of Kankakee spoke on "Insane cases."

The First Wedding In White House

The first marriage in the White House was in March, 1811, during the first administration of James Madison.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas Todd was then united in the holy bonds with Lucy Payne Washington, widow of Philip Steptoe Washington, a nephew of the late Father of his Country, and sister of Mrs. Madison.

In the second White House marriage, Anna Todd, a cousin of the two sisters, was joined with Edward Brake Jackson of Virginia, who later became a congressman.

POINTERS FOR PARENTS

HALF ORPHANS—
By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

There are thousands of half-orphans who live under the same roof with both parents. They are the children whose dads are too busy making money or playing golf to know their own children.

These fathers who give their children luxuries do not realize that they are denying them companionship and understanding. For the influence of the father is vital for the proper development of the child's character.

In part the fault lies with the mother who keeps jealous guard over the mysteries and rituals of parenthood. The young father who comes home and bends over the crib to catch his baby's roving eye is told that baby has just been fed and that he mustn't be disturbed. He takes him on his lap to let him listen to his watch only to learn that this is baby's bed time. Father is trained to keep his hands off.

With this attitude established during early years, father has missed his chance. The child is told that Daddy is good and kind and that it is he who provides food and clothes and all the nice toys. Daddy is a distant god. You don't climb on his lap and ask him to tell you about the gingerbread boy. You don't show him the finger where you cut yourself. You don't invite him to play milkman with you.

By the time the child is five his emotional responses have been set. It is too late then to initiate father and child into the joys of companionship. The best that can be achieved is an imitation of the real thing. Father will never know why his boy does this and so. The child will never be able to tell his father what is on his mind.

The father must begin to know his child in the cradle. The routine of the first years must admit him to his share of the child's care and attention. No other claims should be permitted to crowd out the father's story hour, his visit to the sand box to admire the new tunnel, or his strict attention to the child's recital of the day's adventures.

THE QUALITY OF GENIUS.

A genius, says Dr. John B. Watson, New York's eminent psychologist, is made and not born.

Elaborating this theme in the current issue of Cosmopolitan magazine, Dr. Watson asserts that any normal infant, given proper training and shielded from unfortunate occurrences, can be molded into a Lindbergh, an Edison, a J. P. Morgan or any other big personality you can think of. Environment, he says, is everything; heredity, nothing.

This may all be very true. Dr. Watson is a very famous psychologist.

Yet this effort to reduce everything in life to a simple algebraic equation has been overdone just a little. There is an indefinable something, born into some human spirits, that will forever elude the professors who like to explain everything, from the Sermon on the Mount to the Eroica symphony, in terms of mechanics.

One wonders, for example, in just what way Abraham Lincoln's environment proved so advantageous that he towered above his fellows like a giant. Did his long years of young manhood on the great Illinois prairies mold his spirit to the great proportions it finally assumed? Possibly; yet one may suspect that the things Lincoln imbibed in those early days along the Sangamon were not things that could be easily refined in a text book of psychology.

To be sure, the saying that "we are products of our times" is perfectly true up to a certain point. Twentieth century America could not produce a St. Augustine, any more than fourth century Rome could produce a Henry Ford. But, after all, that is something like saying that a boy raised in the Sahara desert will not be as good a swimmer as a native of Hawaii.

The thing that we call greatness is indefinable, and we cannot explain it. We cannot tell, for instance, where Frederick the Great got the moral force that made him pause before a row of thundering cannon and snarl at his faltering soldiers, "Secoundrels! Would ye live forever?" We do not know where Danton got the cool poise that made him stand on the platform of the guillotine and remark to the executioner, "You will show my head to the mob—it will be worth seeing." We are still mystified by the strength that took Washington unshaken through the long winter at Valley Forge, when even his own countrymen were turning against him.

But we feel, instinctively, that this sort of greatness is not born of the earth and cannot be explained in glib terms of environment and early training. It comes from some place beyond our ken. It has the same inexplicable splendor of a flaming sunset, or a child's smile, or a chorus of violins. Trying to reduce it to a matter of a plus b plus c is like trying to build a rope of seafoam and sand.

FEWER ACCIDENTS TO EMPLOYEES.

Continued progress is reported by the interstate commerce commission in the campaign of the railroads to reduce accidents to employees 35 percent by the end of 1930.

During the first five months of this year fatalities decreased 11 percent as compared with the corresponding period of 1927, according to a report just issued by the bureau of statistics of the commission. In the same period, the number of employees injured showed a decrease of 22 percent.

The casualty rate per million man-hour for employees killed while on duty decreased 6 percent, while the injuries, as measured by the same unit, declined approximately 17 percent.

New Jersey has revived the torchlight parade for Hoover. Thousands of dollars of campaign funds are being spent more foolishly than that. The trouble in this day is to find enough people to walk in a parade, and we can't carry torches in closed cars. The automobile even put the Labor day parade out of business.

Traveling newspaper correspondents certainly can not be charged with political partiality. They are keeping all states in the doubtful column.

If people lived on Mars they could leap 10 feet easily, says a scientist. That solves the traffic problem; let everybody move to Mars.

A 15-year-old girl evangelist has arrived in Detroit "to chase the devil away." Probably he'll go back to Chicago, where he belongs.

The large canary sang along, and my, but twas a pretty song. The Tynmites stood and listened, 'cause they liked the chirping well. Then suddenly the sweet notes stopped, and to the ground the canary dropped. 'Oh, won't you sing some more for us,' said Scouty. 'That was swell.' And, to the Tynmites' surprise, the bird hopped near and winked its eyes, and started talking plainly, so the bunch could understand. 'I'm glad you like the way I sing. Sweet notes real happiness can bring. That's why I sing the live long day, while sailing 'o'er the land.'

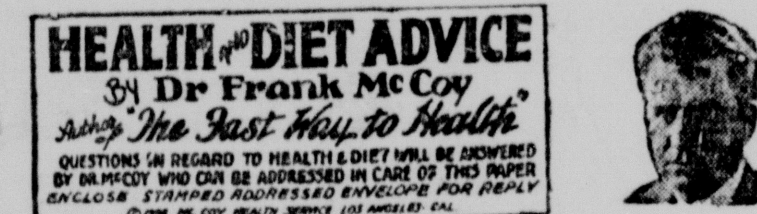

'Oh, please don't sail away right now, 'cause if you'll stay we will allow you as a welcome member of our happy little band.' 'Twas Clowny who had made this speech. And then the others saw him reach out to the bird. They laughed because he tried to shake its hand.

The canary said, 'You're very sweet, but you will have to shake my feet. A bird, you see, is shy of hands. They're of no use to us.' 'Oh, don't hind him,' one Tyn said. 'He simply doesn't use his head. But let's forget about that now, so we won't start a fuss.'

Thus 'twas agreed they'd friendly be. Soon Carpy said, 'Say, as for me, I'd like to have a bite of food. I'm almost starved to death.' The bird began to fly away, and all the Tynies heard it say, 'Don't worry, I will bring some back, ere you can catch your breath.'

'Twas gone a real short time and then, it came a-flying back again. Within its beak it held a basket full of things to eat. 'Hurray!' cried Carpy. 'This is grand.' And then they saw the big bird land. The other Tynies also cheered. They knew they'd have a treat.

(Other birds join the Tynies in the next story).

PREVENTING CHRONIC TUBERCULOSIS

The methods which I have found most satisfactory for preventing the development of tuberculosis differ somewhat from the regular treatments.

Since the tubercular and the near-tubercular usually have very weak digestive systems, they cannot digest large quantities of heavy foods, and for his reason I do not employ the stuffing treatment, or do I advocate a complete period of inactivity, since I believe some exercise is necessary to bring about a discharge of toxins of this disease from the system. One should however, use frequent resting periods and avoid becoming overly tired. He should retire early and sleep as long as possible.

I usually begin treatment of these patients by advising them to take a short fast, using the following acid fruits: apples, apricots, cherries, grapes, oranges, berries, tomatoes, and watermelons, using only one kind of these fruits on any one day, but varying from day to day as desired. This fruit diet should be continued for at least a week, and in some cases as long as ten days to two weeks.

The patient should use a warm or cold shower or sponge bath every morning, and a warm enema every evening before retiring.

After the period of fasting the breakfast should consist of one or two eggs prepared in any manner except by frying. Melba toast or toasted Shredded Wheat Biscuit, and a choice of any one of the following fruits, stewed without sugar: prunes, pears, figs, apricots, raisins, apples or ripe figs, using only the pure sun-dried, unsulphured fruits, except in case of the apple, which may be baked, or the figs which may be eaten raw if desired.

During the forenoon a short walk should be taken, the distance of which should be increased day by day. The walk should not be long enough to cause exhaustion, and the patient should rest immediately after.

For lunch the patient may use one or more of the cooked non-starchy vegetables, such as celery, spinach, small string beans, asparagus, summer squash, zucchini, egg plant, cucumbers, beet tops, small carrots, small parsnips, lettuce, okra, chayote, kale, oyster plant, and a choice of one or more of the raw salad vegetables, also avocado or ripe olives if desired.

desired. No salt or dressing except a little olive oil should be used.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Mother writes: "I have a child two years old who eats clay and other dirt at every opportunity. What makes a child do this, and how may I stop him?"

ANSWER: This dirt-eating practice is probably only a habit which the child gets into because he is not kept sufficiently interested in healthful playing. Some claim that it is because the child craves certain foods containing minerals and, not getting enough of these foods, gives him the instinctive desire to eat dirt. My observation is that this is not true, but that the dirt-eating habit or the habit of putting objects into the mouth is simply a bad habit of a poorly trained child.

QUESTION: An Interested Reader asks: "Do you recommend the dry-ready-to-eat breakfast foods now on the market, such as corn flakes, etc."

ANSWER: When these breakfast foods are re-toasted they form an excellent re-dried article of food and may be used instead of milk or cream except by those who have a tendency to catarrh, in which case it would be best to use only a small amount of butter. Milk and cream are to be avoided by catarrh sufferers on account of their mucus-forming elements.

QUESTION: G. H. asks: "Will you please tell me the cause of my hands 'shivering' for about four years to date? My age is twenty-five, and I do not use tobacco or drink. When I get excited my body shakes all over. Some time ago I had half around my body a girdle of 'hives'—'Herpes Zoster' the doctor said it was. Is there a cure?"

ANSWER: You are doubtless nervous, but that is due to some cause which can only be found through a careful analysis of your case. The common name for Herpes Zoster is "Shingles" and this is due to certain nerve trunks being irritated by toxemia.

COMPTON NEWS

Compton—Compton will be well represented this year at the University of Chicago, as this week Miss Vera Mae Pool, Miss Leota Archer and Fremont M. Kaufman will depart for this institution of learning.

Word has been received that Wynton Montavon has made the Glee Club at the Northwestern University.

Mrs. Lydia Cole has returned to her home here after a few days of visiting in Chicago.

Saturday afternoon the construction company finished pouring concrete over the Bureau Bridge south of town, leaving a little more than a mile stretch of road yet to be completed to link up the ends of our new highway here.

This gap will be undoubtedly be in within the next two weeks, as reports have been current that the state has decided to build the road around Mr. Montavon's farm instead of through the west portion of the farm as previously laid out. Small amount of grading is necessary for this particular gap, permitting the pouring of the concrete as soon as grading is out of the way.

Two or three culverts will be built and by planking over these, removes all the hazards for the linking up of the highway this fall. We, the people of this community should feel proud of this wonderful road, as well as grateful to the state of Illinois and the people who have worked with untiring efforts in securing the concrete route through our community.

With the first basketball game of the season less than a week away, the C. H. S. aspirants have settled down to real hard work. Eleven candidates are out in uniforms, and undoubtedly the entire eleven men will be kept throughout the season. Some noted improvements have been accomplished during the practice session which have kept the youngsters out to sundown every evening since the opening day of school. Eggers, the lanky center is showing improvement and should work in with the forwards, Mireley, Risley, Deputy and Burley. The two Chaon brothers are showing that they can handle the guarding positions and along with Risley, should help to round the team in good shape. All efforts from now on will be concentrated on the opening game with Lee high school to be held here Friday afternoon, October 5th.

Mrs. Ida Taylor, central operator for the past five years here has retired from the switchboard and will devote her time to domestic duties. Mrs. Taylor has the admiration of all, as she was always ready to give the best service possible. We regret to see her retire, but can feel assured that Miss Mireley, who has taken Mrs. Taylor's place will continue in her pleasant way in serving the public.

H. M. Chaon and family reported a very pleasant Sunday visiting at Mooseheart, Ill.

Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Pool entertained Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hain-shack, Mrs. Yone of Peru, and Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Carnahan to a six o'clock dinner at their home on Tuesday evening of this week.

Lyod McDougall has accepted a position with the Kessler's cash grocery here.

Several people from this community attended the U. V. Welton funeral held at Hinkley on last Friday afternoon.

Miss Mildred Kaiser, a patient at the local hospital returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kaiser on Saturday of last week.

Dale Miller has been confined to

H. F. Cook has been relieved from his duties at the depot here for at least a month. Mr. Cook has had a very busy summer and well deserves the vacation.

Change of residence was made during the early part of this week by W. H. Carnahan and his son, R. M. Carnahan. The change is due to a deal that was closed between W. H. Carnahan and Frank Weisensel some time ago. Mr. Weisensel moved from his little farm out on the west edge of town into the W. H. Carnahan home. Mr. Carnahan will occupy his sons place here in town, while R. M. Carnahan will move out on the Weisensel place.

Mrs. Mae Bradshaw has returned to her home here after visiting for a fortnight with her son Max Bradshaw and wife at their home at Mendota Beach, Madison, Wis.

"Meanest Thieves" Steal Crutches of Friendly Cripple

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 26.—(AP)—The police here today were hunting men they described as the three meanest thieves in the world after Robert Corcoran, 24, a cripple of Quincy, Ill., had reported the theft of his automobile, $55 in currency, and his crutches by three men he befriended.

Corcoran, who was driving from Quincy to Chicago offered a lift to the three men near Genoa, Ill. He said that when they reached a lonely stretch of road, the men tossed him out of the car after taking his money and crutches from him.

You cannot be attractive without a clear skin

EVERYBODY wants to be attractive. It is a great and just ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin—you know that.

Do you realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of most skin disorders is in the blood?

Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and pimples, boils, eczema, and that sallow complexion will disappear.

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs, and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

WAGE COMPARISONS SHOW REPUBLICANS FRIENDS OF LABOR

Emmerson Cites Work- ers' Condition in South as Proof

Carlinville, Ill., Sept. 27.—A comparison of the status of wage earners in Illinois with the conditions existing in the southern states is sufficient evidence that the Republican party is the true friend of labor, Louis L. Emmerson, Republican nominee for Governor said here today.

"In the south," he declared, "where the Democratic party has been in uninterrupted control for three-quarters of a century, low wages, almost unbearable working conditions and absence of proper protective measures prevail."

"In Illinois, where the Republican party has been in control almost continuously since the Civil War, wage earners are protected by labor laws of the most advanced type, working conditions are among the best to be found anywhere in the country and industry, under the friendly encouragement of practical state administrations has grown until Illinois ranks fourth among the states in manufactured products and is among the first in the high wages paid to labor."

"To mention all of the laws enacted for the benefit of labor by Republican legislatures in Illinois would require some time. Among them are such important acts as the Workmen's Compensation Act, laws for the protection of health and safety of employees, the injunction law, the sweat shop act, the limitation of hours of employment on public works, the woman's 10 hour law, the sanitary work shop law, the great code of laws for the protection of miners and improvement of the conditions under which men work in the mines, railroad and public safety acts and various pension laws."

"To Republican administrations labor owes practically everything that has been done in behalf of wage earners in this state. It is highly important from the standpoint of labor, therefore, that the Republican party be retained in power to continue its sympathetic efforts in behalf of those who work for a livelihood."

"It is of the utmost importance to labor that the national government shall continue under Republican management."

"I wonder if the American workmen fully appreciate the great protection to their interests afforded by the immigration law passed by a Republican Congress and administered under a Republican president."

"Under this law the number of persons from foreign countries admitted to the United States each year is restricted and limited so as not to affect the labor market unfavorably. It has prevented a flood of cheap labor from Europe and has maintained a balance of power in favor of American workmen."

"Republican leaders in the next Congress, I believe, will urge the passage of an amendment to the immigration laws classifying those admitted by trades. Where there is an over-er-supply of men in a certain trade, none will be admitted of this particular class from foreign countries until the balance is restored.

"It is essential that this wall shall be built higher and not torn down. Hardships due to the barring of members of families should of course be corrected and Herbert Hoover has given his pledge that this will be done, but there is no thought on the part of the Republican party of removing the protection of immigration laws."

"On the other hand, Governor Smith says that if he is elected he will let down the bars on immigration and admit foreign labor into the United States to compete with our workmen. This may please a few multi-millionaires, but it will result in low wages for workers and will be a serious blow to our national prosperity."

"The Democratic party never has been the friend of labor and in the present campaign it shows no inclination to change its attitude."

DEFENDANT SAYS HE KILLED WIFE SLEEP-WALKING

Says Report of Gun Awakened Him—Tried to Suicide

Detroit, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A plea that he was walking in his sleep when he shot and killed his wife, Amelia, has been entered as a defense for Chestnut Kutzub, 48, on trial here charged with murder.

William Cohen, representing the defendant, in his opening statement said Kutzub killed his wife while suffering from "somnolentia" and somnambulism.

Kutzub testified he apparently was walking in his sleep at the time he shot his wife and told of an attempt at suicide after discovering the deed. He said the report of the gun awakened him.

Three children of the couple testified their father walked in his sleep on an average of three times a week and asserted their parents never quarreled.

Police who answered a call to the Kutzub home on the night of the shooting, April 6, last, told of finding the husband, grief-stricken, holding his wife in his arms.

DIXON HIGH TO OPEN SEASON IN AMBOY SATURDAY

Local Grid Players to Get Initial Test: Hard Game Sure

The Dixon high school football team is all ready for the inaugural game of the present season, which will be played at Amboy, against the fast high school team of that city, at 3:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The coaches of the Dixon squad have been putting their charges through some hard practice and both express themselves as satisfied with the condition of the players for so early in the season.

The tentative line-up of the Dixon team, as announced by Coach Bowers today, will be:

Flamingham, Rorer and Plowman, ends.

Schultz and Sittel, tackles.

Poisell and LaSage, guards.

Eno, center.

Pagett, quarter back.

Teeter and Blackburn, half backs.

Smith, full back.

The Dixon boys and coaches anticipate a real tryout at Amboy, with no definite assurance that victory will rest on the shoulders of the local team after the fray, for the Amboy team has started off in great shape this year and has shown that it possesses plenty of "stuff." It has played one game which was an overwhelming victory over Walnut high, 28 to 7.

A large number of local fans will accompany the team to Amboy.

Ban Johnson Sees First Game of 1928 Season

Recovering from the illness which caused him to retire as president of the American League, which he organized, Ban Johnson recently saw his first game of the 1928 season. It was not a game in the hectic pennant race of his old league that he saw but a contest in the American Association. In the picture above he is shown at left at the game with Henry J. News From Grid Camps of Large Schools of West Chicago, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Fruit juice, psychology, trick beds, Bob Zupke and scores of candidates.

These are the varied concomitants working for another Big Ten championship football team at the University of Illinois.

And while Zupke so far has given nothing but pessimistic reports, indications are the Illini will have another starless but powerful eleven.

Always on the alert for new ideas and ever ready to experiment for more speed and more stamina, the ingenious "Zup" has thrown open the gates for every rational plan to put his men in shape this season, and so far the results have been good.

Several other interesting experiments are being tried, but have not as a candidate reports. Professor Coleman Griffith is in charge of this department for athletes, who are examined carefully. Then a report is made to Coach Zupke, various complexes are treated and the mental makeup of each man is known. If a player possesses coolness under fire, for instance, he is given every opportunity to use that asset. If he shows an excitable nature and is liable to break under pressure, efforts are directed to correct that condition.

Professor Griffith has been experimenting with athletes for some time and so exact are his experiments that even cheer leaders are given instructions so that a cheer cheers the players instead of befuddling them.

Another experiment now in progress was designed to discover when a player is under or over trained. Several of the star backfield candidates have been sleeping on single beds, matted by a heavy mattress. A clock is attached to it and regulated in such a manner that every move is recorded. The extent and time of the move is shown on the chart attached to the clock, thus, if it is found a player is continually tossing about during the night, trainers are advised and his training is reduced or increased as it is deemed fit.

For a while it looked as if Corbett was going to score an even more decisive victory. The Californian started a fierce attack in the first round that gave him a lead and had Baker on the verge of a knockout in

Although there are 13 lettermen nounced the outlook as dark for the back in the fold, Zupke has proclaimed this year.

"The big trouble is everybody will think we are a bunch of poor ones if we don't win the title, and if we do win, they'll just say: 'Why shouldn't Illinois win? Zupke had most of his championship team back?'"

"As it is, I have just an ordinary football squad, bigger in numbers than ever before, but no better. It's just the kind of a squad you'll find in most universities."

Baker Got Decision Over Young Corbett

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Assured by the New York State Athletic Commission of a shot at Joe Dundee's welterweight title, or at Young Jack Thompson, if the California Negro deprives the Baltimore battler of his crown in their meeting Nov. 16, Sergeant Sammy Baker, Mitchell Field, N. Y., contender, has made his place as a challenger doubly secure.

In a return bout at Ebbets Field last night, Baker disposed of the principal obstacle in his path, Young Corbett the Third, by winning a 12 round decision over the Californian.

For a while it looked as if Corbett was going to score an even more decisive victory. The Californian started a fierce attack in the first round that gave him a lead and had Baker on the verge of a knockout in the third. But the little soldier scrapper weathered the storm and scored heavily with a punishing body attack in the closing rounds.

Big Scoreboard Watching the

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The mad drama portrayed by baseball in the season of 1928 sweeps into its final scene where the great climax must be reached by nightfall on Sunday. It is decreed that on that date the curtain must drop on the current extravaganza, but it may be that this latest spectacle provided by the master dramatists of the game will yet eclipse anything that has gone on before.

Th Yankees have dragged themselves into Detroit with some trepidation regarding the final five games of the season, for all of the fact that three victories will put them where they cannot be caught, even if the embattled Mackmen succeed in taking four straight from the White Sox. Many things have happened to the Yankees in the last three unhappy (for them) months, and they won't believe this sixth pennant until they can feel it.

While the Bruins are making threatening motions toward John McGraw's cherished ambition, the Cardinals will be in Boston, where they hope to fatten upon three games against the defenseless Braves.

Any margin greater than one game, of course, would convert Sunday's finale into something just a little less than a common ordinary ball game. The goal of the Cardinals, therefore,

On the other side of the stage, the master showman of all prepares for the final stirring scenes designed to give his actors the front and center. John Joseph McGraw has no hundred million fans praying for his success, but he gets there just the same. He has made himself wealthy on the good-natured (or not) hats of baseball followers outside of New York, and yet he enjoys giving them yet other things for which to hate him more.

The Giants, now only half a game behind the Cardinals as a result of Dazzy Vance's brilliant victory in Brooklyn yesterday, are face to face with the Cubs for four engagements, beginning with a double-header this afternoon.

The Cubs remained theoretically in the running yesterday by taking a parting shot at the Phillies by 8 to 3 while the Cardinals were losing, and they plan to fight the Giants hard enough at least to keep John McGraw's boys out of the flag even though they realize it no longer is possible for Chicago efforts to be rewarded with a championship.

The Cubs could tie in several things combined in their favor—but the odds are about a million to one against.

is three straight on the banks of the Charles and a prayer that the Cubs can win two in New York.

The desperation, if any, attaching to the St. Louis situation at this moment was brought about yesterday afternoon upon the chilly reaches of Ebbets Field. The disgraceful misconduct of certain Robins, notably Dazzy Vance and Gink Hendrick, toward their betters is to blame for it all.

Dazzy held the Cards off five harmless hits, fanned seven to hit the 200 mark even for the season, and waded impudently away with his twenty-second victory. All of this happened after Dazzy, numb with cold, raised the hopes of the Cardinals in the very first inning by passing four and forcing home a run.

The Robins got two back for Vance in the home first, and he was very well satisfied, but Gink Hendrick had to overdo it as usual. He found three Robins on base in the seventh, and was thoughtless enough to pound a home run to left field within the lot, making the final debacle read 6 to 1.

Mandell to be Out of Ring Long Time

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—

Whatever prospects there were for a lightweight championship match this winter have been shattered along with Sammy Mandell's left collar bone.

Mandell, whose collar bone was broken when Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo landed a blow in the first round of their bout at Flint, Mich., Tuesday night, will be unable to fight for at least three months. When he does return, he undoubtedly will engage in several warmup contests before defending his title.

SENATOR CURTIS, SAYS DRINKING STORY IS A LIE

Republican Candidate Indignant at Sland- erous Story

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 26.—(AP)—In no uncertain terms Senator Curtis, candidate for Vice-President on the Republican ticket, denied the statement issued at Baltimore, Md., last night by Senator William C. Bruce, Democrat, of Maryland, quoting a statement from James A. McGrath, Baltimore attorney, that Curtis had offered McGrath a drink of whiskey. Senator Bruce's story is a reiteration of a charge made in an address last Saturday at Westminster, Maryland.

McGrath in his statement declared that he, in company with Robert B. Dennis, another Baltimore lawyer and John Gray, of Brooklyn, N. Y., had met the Senator at the Pimlico race track at Baltimore last year. It said that Senator Curtis asked the trio to join him in a drink and that they went to the race track bar, where Senator Curtis furnished them the drinks from a bottle of O. F. C. whiskey from his pocket.

"I dislike to say anything harsh about a man," Senator Curtis declared following his Omaha speech last night, "but if this Mr. McGrath issued that statement about me he is a wilful, malicious and deliberate liar. I never offered this Mr. McGrath or any other person any whiskey at Pimlico race track or any other place. I am surprised Senator Bruce would peddle such slander."

Good Grinders Help Digestion

By Manuel Leo Adler, D. D. S.,
New York City.

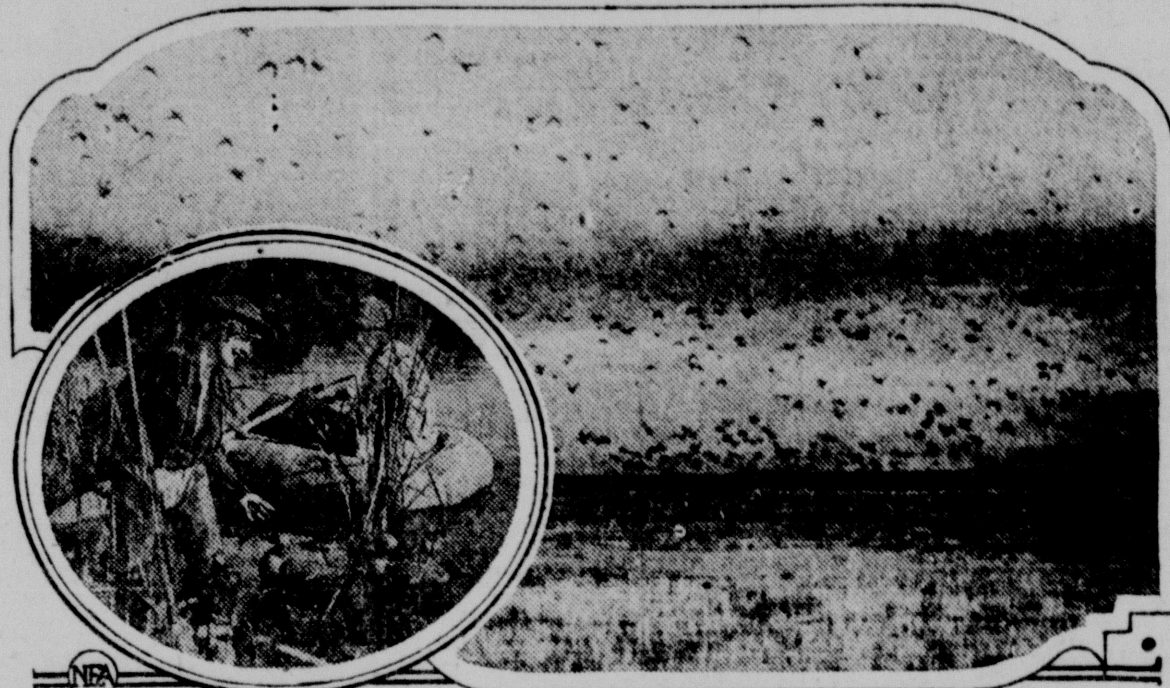

This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

If some of the grind stones of a flour mill were missing and others were chipped and broken in places, the wheat put into it would never be properly ground. Consequently, a good loaf of bread could not be baked with such poorly ground flour.

Nature gives us grindstones in the form of two sets of teeth, an upper and a lower, to grind, crush and chew our food. These grinders are similar on both sides of the mouth, left and right, a double force for chewing. As with the flour mill, if some of your teeth are missing and others are chipped and broken due to decay, the food you put into your mouth cannot be properly chewed or ground and prepared for the stomach. Consequently you do not get the full benefit of what you eat.

A definite job is assigned to each tooth in the act of mastication or chewing. The front teeth are called the incisor teeth because they incise or cut the food. The back teeth, the bicusps and molars, triturate or grind the food. The back teeth are your best friends because they are the ones that prepare the food for your stomach. If these teeth are missing you cannot chew your food well. The stomach has no teeth.

Bang! And the Ducks Are Out Again

Football isn't the only sport that draws its thousands when the bite of autumn chills off the ardor for summer sports. The duck hunters will be at it soon in legions and the hardy hunters will have to make room for the fair nimrods, who, in this day of virile feminism, can handle a gun as well as they can manipulate a golf club or a tennis racket. The army of hunters will be augmented by large numbers of baseball players, who find a great attraction in hunting after the tedium of a long season of work on the diamond. Here's a glimpse of a flock of ducks who were surprised at one of the northern lakes by two fair hunters.

Food must be ground and prepared in the mouth.

Food is crushed in the mouth by the lower teeth striking against the upper. In chewing meats this is done in an up and down motion, while vegetables are crushed in a side to side movement.

Every time you lose a tooth and do not replace it three other teeth are affected. The tooth in the opposite jaw cannot do its work because it has nothing to grind against. You need two stones with which to grind. The tooth on either side of the missing one loses its necessary side support. Nature tries to close up this missing space, but, unfortunately, it cannot be properly done. The tooth in the opposite jaw grows toward the missing one. If a lower tooth is missing, the upper grows downward and soon appears lower than the others. If an upper is missing, the lower grows upward. The teeth on either side of the missing one tilt towards the missing tooth space. It is this tilting of the back teeth and teeth growing out of proper alignment that prevents some people from having their front teeth meet when they close their jaws.

When teeth are missing the remaining teeth must do extra work for which they are not fitted. The front ones, in addition to cutting the food, must grind the food when the back teeth are missing. The back teeth, in addition to cutting when the front ones are missing.

If your grinders do not properly prepare your food, your digestion suffers. The larger particles of food that are swallowed because of poor chewing are not digested and the movement in the intestines is delayed. Starches, which form a great part of our food, have been proven to be improperly digested when the molar or back teeth are missing. Vegetable particles have also been known to pass through the body practically unchanged unless chewed by all the teeth.

When food remains in the system longer than naturally, fermentation takes place with a subsequent gas-tritis (inflammation of the stomach) and an enteritis (inflammation of the intestines). I believe the use of laxatives and cathartics would be materially reduced if people would properly chew their food.

Replace your missing teeth. Good teeth mean good digestion, and good digestion means good health and the pursuit of happiness!

Do you use engraved calling cards. If so come to us. B. F. Shaw Printing Co.

Following Trails of Coon is Sport

Galesburg, Ill.—(AP)—Following the 'coon trails has arisen as a new sport among country gentry of the central west this fall.

Inaugurated in a small way last year, the sport known as "coon hunting" this year has become so popular that an official organization, the Mississippi Valley Coon Hound association, has been formed to supervise the trails and formulate official rules.

Fifteen hundred spectators watched a recent meet held near here, and more than a hundred blooded hounds were entered.

Jacob Heltz of Princeton, president of the association, said that coon trials were started in this section last year, but drew only small entries. This summer several were held in downstate Illinois and interest mounted to the point where it was necessary to group together for the proper staging of meets.

Trials on the association's calendar for the remainder of this year are: Galesburg, Sept. 30; Davenport, Iowa, October 7; Clinton, Iowa, Oct. 14; Milan, Ill., Oct. 21; Buda, Oct. 28 and Cambridge, Nov. 4.

Staging of a trial is simple—for the men who know how to handle coons and hounds.

A coon is taken over the trail of half a mile or more to lay a scent. It is fastened in a tree, and the judges stand nearby. Hounds are then unleashed in groups, eight dogs to a heat. The winner is the one which follows the proper trail and is first to bay up the tree indicating it has spotted the coon.

Mr. Coon is taken out of the tree after each heat and a new scent laid. Heat winners compete in the finals. In addition to the elimination contest, there is usually a free for all at each meet. Often as many as 50 dogs are entered in this event and the barking and baying of the big eared hounds as they struggle to be freed and after they pick up the scent is so loud that the spectators can't hear each other talk.

The coon tree is always obligingly placed so the crowd can reach it without too much walking through timber or pasture land. When possible it is in a hollow and spectators mass in the nearby hillside. Whistles, clapping and cheering resound when a hound spots the coon and barks up the tree.

Fear of "Milksick" Gave State Lincoln

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Had it not been for the poisonous weed known as white snakeroot, which causes "trembles" in cattle and "milksick" in men, Illinois today might not be able to claim Abraham Lincoln as a citizen.

Outlining the state's work in attempting to determine the nature of the weed, S. J. Standard, director of agriculture, said that fear of "milksick," which caused the death of Lincoln's mother, led the Lincoln family into Illinois.

Standard's outline of state work was made in connection with the recent deaths of cattle from the weed reported in Jackson county. While the disease, milksick, was recognized in Lincoln's time, it was not known what caused it. Today, although milksick is known to be the result of drinking milk from poisoned cattle, little more is definitely known.

"Repeated tests," he said, "have shown this weed is poisonous to cattle, and there has been down through the years, a heavy toll of human life from the mysterious malady, milksick. Deaths are less frequent to humans than formerly, yet deaths still occasionally follow the use of milk from cows which have grazed in the wood pastures where the weed is most frequently found.

"For two summers we have carried on experiments, which, while partially successful, are yet incomplete. Our tests have laid a foundation for a cure that we believe eventually may be successfully developed.

"But until a cure is developed, all we can say is 'beware of wooded pastures. Search shady places for the weed and avoid the use of milk that comes direct from any cow that grazes where the weed grows. To attempt the extermination of the weed would be almost prohibitive in cost."

In the experiments, cattle, calves and white rats have been subjected to feeding tests. Remedies tried have proved partly successful, and the department has withheld any announcement until complete proof of the cures is obtained.

Coolidge Plans to Deliver Two Talks Next Two Months

Washington, Sept. 26.—(AP)—President Coolidge expects to deliver addresses at Fredericksburg, Va., on October 9 and at an armistice day ceremony November 11.

The scene of the armistice day ceremony has not yet been decided upon. The president has not definitely accepted invitations to make these addresses but he is expected to give his formal assent shortly.

Representative Bland of Virginia called at the White House today to discuss ceremonies at Fredericksburg when the battlefields of Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania will be dedicated.

National Commander Stafford of the American Legion, called upon Mr. Coolidge to discuss the first draft of plans for the armistice day ceremony.

FEDERAL AGENTS GET HIM

Danville, Ill., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Fred Hoppe, alias Charles Walters, alias Walter Johnson, was arrested here today at the request of a Terre Haute postoffice inspector who says Hoppe is wanted for theft of letters at Clinton, Ind. Police also said that several cities, including St. Louis and Cincinnati, also want him on bad check charges. Hoppe's companion, who gave his name as Louis Sullivan of Evansville, Ind., is held for investigation.

140 YEARS OF THE PRESIDENTIAL PARADE!

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

(Copyright, 1928, NEA Service, Inc.)
Washington, Sept. 27.—The greatest political leader in American history was Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence. Jefferson founded what is now the Democratic party. He obliterated the powerful Federalist party of Washington and Hamilton. He held the presidency for eight years and then obtained equal terms for his two lieutenants, James Madison and James Monroe, whom he once called "the two pillars of my happiness." He dominated national politics and national affairs from 1800 until his death in 1826.

Alexander Hamilton did not live to oppose or support him in the election of 1804. Hamilton was killed in a duel by that unscrupulous master political strategist, Vice President Aaron Burr, whose unfair election to the presidency he had blocked in 1800 and whose candidacy for governor of New York he defeated early in 1804.

Hamilton's astonishingly bitter enmity toward Burr has been laid to their rivalry for the affections of a woman. Hamilton professed hatred of Burr's character and his shady political methods, but no ordinary explanation can account for the enmity which led him to prefer and accomplish Jefferson's election over Burr when the tied contest was thrown into the House. Hamilton had previously urged high-handed methods to rob Jefferson of the election on the ground that no "scruples of delicacy and propriety" should count against the task of preventing "an atheist in religion and a fanatic in politics from getting possession of the helm of state."

Jefferson's overwhelming victory over the Federalists in 1804 proved the collapse of the Federalist party. The 1804 election was held under the new law by which electors voted separately for president and vice-president, preventing another Jefferson-Burr mixup.

The Republican congressional caucus, forerunner of the nominating convention, unanimously renominated Jefferson in February and picked a northerner, George Clinton of New York, for vice president.

Disgruntled Federalists agreed to support Charles C. Pinckney of South Carolina and Rufus King of New York, but realized the futility of a strong national fight and made none.

Victory is Overwhelming
Pennsylvania went for Jefferson 20 to 1. New Jersey 13,119 to 19 and Ohio 6 to 1. There were close contests in New England, but Pinckney carried only Delaware and Connecticut, with 14 electoral votes to Jefferson's 162.

After that Federalist leaders began to merge with the Republicans, but feuds broke out in the Republican ranks. There were serious state fights in New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

After his second election, Jefferson promptly announced that he would not run again. His wishes regarding Madison were understood. This hurt Monroe and incensed Clinton, who wanted to step from the vice presidency to the presidency as Adams and Jefferson had.

Virginia's legislature had a caucus of its own, nominating Madison. Loud protests arose at the practice of nominating by congressional caucus, but one was held and nomination for Madison by 83 to three each for Clinton and Monroe, with Clinton for vice president. Criticism followed, but harmony was gradually achieved and Madison and Clinton defeated the renominated Pinckney-King ticket, 122 to 47, Pinckney carrying Delaware and all the New England states but Vermont.

In 1811 a group of young congressmen including Henry Clay John C. Calhoun and William Crawford took control of the House. They pushed Madison and Monroe, the secretary of state, into the War of 1812. Madison was renominated with Elbridge Gerry of Vermont for vice president a month before war was declared.

Then DeWitt Clinton, party boss in New York and nephew of the late Vice President George Clinton, announced his candidacy. He was sure of New York and of a coalition with the Federalists and hoped to make deals with Republican leaders in other states to beat Madison. It was shady politics. Martin Van Buren, later president, was Clinton's campaign manager. Some Federalist leaders refused to enter the deal but the majority did.

The electoral vote was Madison 128, Clinton 89. Madison won with a solid south, plus Ohio, Pennsylvania and Vermont. Clinton had the rest of New England, New York, New Jersey and Delaware. Soon the disgruntled Federalists were meeting at the famous Hartford convention where they proposed the north's separation from the Union. It proved to be the party's swan song.

Opposition to the "Virginia dynasty" was hotter than ever when Jefferson and Madison backed Monroe for nomination in 1816. It was all internal, for popular revolt against the power of the New England clergy stronghold. Monroe barely beat Crawford of Georgia at the congressional Springfield —(AP)— Curtailed by observance of Labor Day in the union coal fields of Illinois, the state's production of soft coal fell off somewhat in the week ended September 8. It was shown today in the weekly statistical review of the bureau of mines, U. S. department of commerce.

Production for the week was 806,000 tons, or 112,000 tons less than the week previous when mines were operating the full quota of six working days. Daily production, however, showed a substantial increase. For the week ended Sept. 1, the daily production was 153,000 tons for Illinois mines; while the five days worked in the following week netted an average of 172,000 tons.

Due to the holiday observance, the other major coal producing states showed a similar loss of tonnage.

For the week ending September 15, the bureau estimated, on preliminary returns, the highest weekly production for all mines of the nation since the week of March 10,

GAS TAX LAW WILL BE IN COURT ONCE MORE ON OCT. 5

Gasoline Distributors Sue To Get Back Tax Money They Paid

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The much-litigated gasoline tax law, declared invalid after $6,300,000 had been collected under its provisions, will come into court again on October 5.

This date was set by circuit judge Charles Briggie for first arguments on the question of whether gasoline distributors who paid the money into the state treasury before the tax was declared unconstitutional should have their money returned.

For several months, two score suits have been pending in Judge Briggie's court, awaiting an agreement between Attorney General Carlstrom, representing the state and the attorneys for the oil companies. Setting of the date represents an agreement between the contending attorneys, under which one of the cases will be tried as a test case, the decision to serve as a precedent for all others. The case to be tried is the complaint brought by the Richardson Lubricating Company.

The burden of the Attorney General's argument against refunding the tax to the oil companies is that they do not come into court "with clean hands."

"The complainant," his brief sets forth, "has suffered no injury or damage and in fact is not the real party in interest in this suit." This contention is based on the fact that the money they paid to the treasury was collected from motor car drivers.

The state further asks if the oil companies have offered to return any of the tax collected to the persons who originally paid it.

G. O. P. TARIFF MAKES JOB SURE AND WAGE HIGH

Mrs. Dodson Says a Woman's First Interest Is Man's Job

Elgin, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A woman's first interest is in "her man's job," declared Mrs. Louis Dodson of Des Moines at a Republican luncheon here today.

"Only under our tariff system is a man's job protected," she said, "for the tariff system from top to bottom and side to side is nothing less than a matter of wages."

Mrs. Dodson, who is personal representative at western headquarters in Chicago for Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, Republican national committeeman in charge of women's activities, said this is the first campaign in which women have had much of an opportunity to make their influence felt. The 1920 campaign followed the federal suffrage amendment so closely women did not have a chance to get their bearings, and in 1924 it was simply a matter of reelecting a popular candidate.

"I used to think women would never be interested in the question of tariff," she declared. "Now I know the tariff touches the real life of every man, woman and child in the United States."

"Through the tariff system we have been able to create a standard of living among the wage earners in the United States which endures in no other country in the world. Without the tariff system how could we ever hope to compete with countries which pay wage earners 10 cents a day, as in China and Japan."

"Even in more enlightened countries like England, Belgium and Germany wages paid in industries similar to our own are divided four and five times under that which we pay in the United States. For example, in round numbers, a carpenter in the United States will receive $10 a day, one in England $3.00, in Germany $2.00, in Belgium $1.50 and in Italy $2.00."

ALL OVER THIS SECTION PEOPLE PRAISE GLY-CAS

Resident, Near Dixon, Says Relief of Stomach, Bowel Troubles Almost Unbelievable.

Not only in Dixon, but in Amboy, Polo, Rochelle, Franklin Grove, Compton, Ashton and other surrounding towns and on rural routes, hundreds of men and women, sufferers from stomach, liver, bowel, blood, nerve troubles, rheumatism, neuritis, for years, are taking this great new vegetable compound, Gly-Cas at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Dixon, and telling remarkable stories of the relief this surprising medicine has given them. For example, just recently, in a conversation with the Gly-Cas man, Mr. Joshua Hoyle, R. R. No. 1, Dixon, made the following statement:

"About a year ago I began having trouble with my stomach and bowels," Mr. Hoyle said, "and my condition seemed to keep growing worse as prescribed treatments and other medicines did me no good."

"My bowels were all disordered," he continued. "For three or four days there would be no action and then I would become bilious and have terrible dizzy spells. The acid condition of my stomach, a trouble with me, too, and, as I said, although I was taking different treatments, my health did not improve—in fact, it seemed to be getting worse."

"About this time so many of my friends began to recommend this Gly-Cas to me and I finally came to the decision to try your medicine. Since I have used it, the least I can say of Gly-Cas is that it is a wonderful preparation for the bowels. Where everything else had failed, Gly-Cas has benefited me. For the first time in a year my bowels are regulated and the poisons that once were all through my system have consequently been eliminated."

"Gly-Cas has also proved excellent for my stomach trouble, correcting the acid condition of my stomach so that now I am able to eat foods that I surely couldn't eat before. LITTLE BOOK HAS RECORDS OF CASH PAID BY LEGGERS

Alleged Record of Protection Money Paid to Police Is Shown

Philadelphia, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The grand jury investigating bootlegging and police graft has been shown a little book containing records of money alleged to have been paid police by liquor racketeers for protection.

The book was produced in Judge

Lewis' court at a hearing at which Captain of Police Charles Cohen and other members of the police force appeared to answer charges of bribery and extortion. All were held under bail for trial.

Bootlegger Spills Beans
Members of the grand jury recessed from their deliberations and attended the hearing in a body. They heard a confessed bootlegger, Morris Clearfield, testify that he had paid weekly tribute to police. Clearfield identified his weekly payroll.

The payments averaged about $200 a week for approximately 10 weeks, Clearfield testified. During that time he turned out about 250 or 300 gallons of alcohol weekly without molestation from police. Subsequently he was closed up by federal agents. The police payroll introduced at the hearing was seized in the federal raid and turned over to the district attorney.

Pythians Debate Convention City After Elections

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—New officers of the Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias were officially installed today.

W. H. Stephens of Danville is the new Grand Outer Guard, who progresses year by year to the head of the Grand Lodge. Other officers advanced were: Perry L. Persons, Waukegan, Grand Chancellor; Arthur W. James, Chicago, Grand Vice Chancellor; Harry E. Beckman, Petersburg, Grand Prelate; Harry DeFrates, Palmyra, Grand Master-at-Arms; and Guy Young, Herrin, Grand Inner Guard.

Allen Douglass of Springfield was reelected Grand Keeper of the Records and Seals, Millard F. Dunlap, Jacksonville, Grand Master of the Exchequer, and Samuel Bransky, Chicago, Grand Trustee.

The Pythians resume their sessions today with deliberations on the question of making their meeting biennial. On special order of business for this afternoon is the question of making additions to the Knights' homes at Decatur and enlargement of their charity funds.

Pythian Sisters Elect
Members of the Grand Temple of Pythian Sisters will resume their sessions today with election of officers scheduled.

Selection of the next convention city will be put before the convention late today or Friday. Springfield, Chicago and Joliet have entered in the race for the next gathering. Arthur W. James of Chicago, new Vice Grand Chancellor, is leading the Chicago fight for the 1929 convention.

Open McHenry Co. Battle On Crime

Woodstock, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—McHenry county's court room fight against protected crime began today. A special grand jury, patterned after Chicago's, was to hear testimony pertaining to an alleged alliance of officials and proprietors of gambling resorts. County officials expected federal aid in the inquiry. Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, Chicago racketeers, were to come under the jury's scrutiny.

Ann Appealed to the President

President Coolidge was in excellent spirits when, during his tour of Vermont, the train stopped at his native Plymouth. Little Ann Noble, 4, with a basket of roses, ran to the platform where Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge stood. The President grabbed Ann, flowers and all, and held her thus while the camera recorded one of the finest of his poses.

The Prince Liked Her

It was five o'clock in the morning—not three o'clock—and they'd danced the whole night through when "Fatty" Arbuckle closed his Plantation Cafe, but that didn't stop Lily Damita (above) and the young Prince George. They merely adjourned to Gloria Swanson's and continued to dance together until 10 a. m., which made 12 hours in all.

HOOVER ALPHABET

By Mabel F. Martin

GENERALSHIP:

His Peaceful Forces Greater Than Any General's

Herbert Hoover is essentially a leader. His generalship has never been surpassed in war or peace, he has none of the stern attributes of a commander nor has he ever been forced to exercise them, for his followings have always been voluntary. As head of the Food Administration from 1917 through the war, he was the leader of 20,000,000 American women who followed a rigid regime of food saving laid out by Mr. Hoover, to such a point that had the war lasted years longer, the country and its overseas forces would not have felt the pinch of hunger as did the people of other war-stricken nations.

Likewise, during his engineering career, he directed at one time nearly 200,000 workers who not only were completely satisfied with their working conditions but idolized their Chief. Hoover lays plans and they are so clear and convincing that others are led to carry them out to the letter, knowing that they will derive the greatest benefit in the end.

OVER YOUR HEAD?

Today's letter golf puzzle concerns a hard, lofty subject—SLATE ROOFS. Perhaps you can do better than the par six solution printed on page 11.

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN in three strokes. COW. HOW. HEW. HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word of common usage for each pump. Slang words and abbreviations do not count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

One solution is printed on page 11.

WHIRLWIND

by ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 SYBIL THORNE tells her sweetheart, CRAIG NEWHALL, of her secret marriage. She tells him also that she is going to have a child. And she tells him something of RICHARD EUSTIS, who won her in the days she describes the horror of the two weeks she spent with him. And she tells him, very gently, when she is through, how her good-by.

Sybil's family, almost overwhelmed by her astounding revelation, consider ways and means of silencing the gossip and smothering a scandal. Sybil's adored brother, TAD, is very sympathetic and understanding, but his wife, VALERIE, is frankly skeptical.

MR. CHANDON, the analyst, reviews the case. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI
 MRS. THORNE leaned back in her Boston rocker. Mr. Cranston flowed on. By and by the maid came with tea. Before they knew it the clock on the mantle was chiming four.

"I am sorry," said Mr. Cranston, "I have another appointment now."

And Mrs. Thorne, gathering her moleskin about her, apologized and prepared to depart.

"I feel so much better," she told him. "I simply can't thank you enough for all you do for me. It's as if a load were lifted from my mind."

And that night she told Valerie. "Mr. Cranston thinks it would be a great mistake to send Sybil away. And he says that the child may be a perfectly marvelous thing for her. He is very anxious to analyze Sybil—for her own good, you know, Valerie. But I suppose she wouldn't hear of such a thing."

"I should say not!" scorned Valerie. "And what's the sense of analyzing Sybil? The girl never had a repression nor an inhibition in her life. It's primitive ego—that's Sybil's trouble—and there's no sublimating that. Mother Thorne—besides, she'd just laugh at it."

"I suppose so," agreed Mrs. Thorne sadly. "Well, we won't let her go away anyhow, Valerie. Mr. Cranston advised very definitely against it."

PORTES GIL WILL SUCCEED CALLES,
FRIENDLY TO U. S.

Newly Elected President of Mexico to Follow
Old Policy

Mexico City, Sept. 26—(AP)—Committed to continuing the policies of President Calles, including friendly relations with the United States, Emilio Portes Gil, Secretary of Interior, will become Provisional President of Mexico on December 1. His election by deputies and senators meeting in a joint session last night was unanimous.

Portes Gil, a supporter of prohibition, is one of the few civilians who has ever been chief executive of Mexico. He has virtually been assured the support of the big military figures who met with President Calles after he had renounced the Presidency and pledged their support to the choice of congress.

Portes Gil will serve from the time Calles' term expires until February 5, 1930, when a President chosen in a general election on the third Sunday of November, 1929 will succeed him.

The assassination of General Alvaro Obregon, elected as successor to Calles, will not mark the end of the program which he mapped out in his campaign, Portes Gil having announced after his election that he would carry this out.

"My policy will be inspired by the highest principles of social equity and justice," Portes Gil said in a statement after his election.

"My task will be to continue the policies developed by President Calles in all branches of public administration and also to procure the fulfillment of the social program outlined by the late General Obregon."

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

THE FORGET-ME-NOT

To our readers, who do not know the origin of the flower, "Forget-Me-Not."

The beautiful little flower forget-me-not was known in England as early as Edward the Fourth, and he gives the following pretty incident:

"Two lovers were loitering along the margin of a lake on a fine summer's evening, when the maiden discovered some flowers growing in the water close to the bank of an island at some distance from the shore. She expressed a desire to possess them, when he knight, in the true spirit of chivalry, plunged into the water, and, swimming to the spot, cropped the wished-for plant; but his strength was unable to fulfill the object of his achievement; and feeling that he could not regain the shore, although very near it, he threw the flowers on the bank, and casting a last affectionate look on his lady-love, said, "Forget me not," and was buried in the water."

Startling Figures Given

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 26—(AP)—Demands on the Department of Welfare in Illinois have increased "so tremendously," Director Roy W. Ide told the Illinois Welfare Conference here today, that "at present there are more than 35,000 human beings receiving state custodial care."

"There are approximately 4,000 pupils receiving special training in the schools of the department," he said. "There are 3,500 in prison and 7,000 children under supervision of the division of visitation. There are also 1,000 private institutions, boarding homes, etc., supervised by the department."

The second day of the conference started with a breakfast for the American Association of Social

Oil Companies Say
They Acted Only to Protect Themselves

Chicago, Sept. 26—(AP)—Illinois oil companies acted in self defense in obtaining injunctions to restrain the transfer of the illegally collected $6,500,000 gas tax from the state treasury to the road fund, officials of several of the larger companies have explained in reply to resolutions passed by 52 of the state counties condemning their action.

One of the officials said it should be remembered that the gas tax law made it a duty for the oil companies to pay the two cent tax, forcing the companies to resort to raising the price to the consumer as their only recourse.

In order to protect themselves against inevitable recovery suits, officials explained they felt impelled to enjoin the transfer of the gas tax funds until the matter was definitely settled.

"The oil companies are sitting squarely in the middle," one of the oil men said. "They had nothing to do with the passage of the law in the first place and nothing to do with the campaign which resulted in its being declared unconstitutional."

They're simply trying to protect themselves."
